OFFICE OF THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER,
AJMER-MERWARA

PRESS COMMUNIQUE

Ajmer, the 19th August 1947

The Government of India have under consideration the revision of the Factories Act.

One of the important changes will be that all plans for the establishment of new factories and new plants or for an extension of existing plants and premises, including plans, designs and specifications of the new buildings proposed to be erected should be submitted to the Chief Inspector of Factories with a view to enabling that authority to satisfy himself that the design and layout and the construction of the factories will be such as to secure the safety and health of the workers.

It will also provide that satisfactory arrangements should be made for the disposal of industrial and trade wastes resulting from the manufacturing process to be carried on in the factory.

Government intend enforcing strictly provisions relating to the health, safety and welfare of workers and to insist on satisfactory arrangements being made for the disposal of industrial and trade wastes. The proposal that there should be prior consultation with the Inspectorate in regard to the design, layout and specifications of the factory buildings or extensions thereof is therefore conceived in the interests of Factory owners themselves. It will be obvious that if the Inspectorate in consultation with the 'Health Department' find that the buildings are not so constructed or the layout is not such as to provide adequately for the health, safety and welfare of workers, factory owners would be required to undertake alterations or in extreme cases even the demolition of buildings found unsuitable for the work, and this would entail loss. This loss can be avoided if those intending to put up new factories or to extend existing capacity would take the precaution of consulting the Chief

Inspector of Factories as regards the suitability of the design and layout of the buildings and the materials proposed to be utilised in construction.

2. The problem will arise to the extent to which provisions in the new legislative measure should be applied to factories constructed and completed before the new law comes into force. In the case of important provisions designed for the safety and health of the workers, it will be difficult to justify the exemption of old factories from the requirements of the law, simply because of any abnormal cost which additions or alterations necessary to conform to the law might involve. Whatever may be the final form of the legislation, those proposing to erect new factories from now onwards will be saved considerable inconvenience and cost if the factories are designed with care and in consultation with the Factory Inspectorate. The Central Government and Local Administration have technical personnel qualified to advise on problems relating to designing of factory buildings, layout of plant and machinery and the disposal of industrial and trade wastes. The advice of such personnel will be available to persons contemplating establishment of new factories. In their own interests such persons would be well advised to obtain the advice of this agency. Enquiry should in the first instance be made to the Local Administration and addressed to the Secretary to the Chief Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwara, Ajmer.

The Local Administration will, where necessary, obtain further advice of the Chief Adviser, Factories to the Government of India.

3. The proper disposal of industrial and trade wastes is another subject which requires consideration before the factories are built. Here again, consultation with Public Health authorities would save the owners avoidable loss. Local Administration has made arrangements to make advice on the best means of disposal of wastes available to those requiring it. Those intending to put up factories are requested to address for advice.
